

Introduction to the School of Education

Transcript

Voice-over

The School of Education is one of the largest teacher training providers in the country, offering programmes that cover all phases of education from childhood studies, youth and community to physical education and professional development. Combine our expert tutorship with stimulating work placements at our partnership schools and colleges. Further your studies with one of our doctorate programmes and participate in in-depth research and enterprise activities.

Chris Philpott

Dean of the School of Education

“The School of Education is one of the largest and most diverse of its kind in the United Kingdom.”

Dr Liz Morrison

Head of Secondary Education

“At the University of Greenwich we have been training teachers for over a century and we have such a long history we’ve developed very strong partnerships.”

Chris Philpott

Dean of the School of Education

“We hope that the expertise that we have within the School means that we can work with our partners to enable them to provide solutions to educational problems.”

Rachel Ashton

Acting Director of Resources

“We like to incorporate some innovative teaching strategies. We are trying to move away from teaching being perceived as ‘a teacher at the front of the class’.”

Thomas Weddell

Primary PGCE Student

“What I enjoyed most about the course is just being able to play in the classroom and be treated by the lectures and by the tutors as if we are the class and learn the most enjoyable way to inspire learning in what will eventually be the children that we teach.”

Paul Scott

ICT Secondary Teacher Training Student

“The teaching experiences have been really interesting. They have used lots of different approaches.”

Fiona Chéry

Maths Secondary Teacher Training Student

“You do feel that there is the support in place to allow you to be successful.”

Rahna Chopra

Early Years Student

“The lecturers have been so good in terms of the teaching methods. They just embed you in just really gently.”

Thomas Weddell

Primary PGCE Student

“You’re getting tuition from people who are fascinated by their area of interest.”

Chris Philpott

Dean of the School of Education

“The School has a rapidly developing portfolio of research and enterprise.”

Dr Jill Jameson

Director of Research and Enterprise

“We look at research consultancy and also enterprise activities with partners locally, regionally and internationally.”

Diana Bath

Senior Lecturer in Early Years

“We are involved in understanding how practitioners and teachers can develop their practice and how that practice is evolving.”

Chris Philpott

Dean of the School of Education

“Including the study of play, recreation, natural learning, design technology, technology enhanced learning, music education, leadership in further and higher education, literacy and poetry in the primary school and complexity theory.”

Rachel Ashton

Acting Director of Resources

“While our students are on placement they have a mentor within that school. They will also be visited by a university link tutor.”

Fiona Chéry

Maths Secondary Teacher Training Student

“It’s been very interesting and challenging.”

Dr Liz Morrison

Head of Secondary Education

“We provide specialist training for school mentors so that the students have the best possible experience when they are in schools.”

Introduction to the School of Education

Transcript

Thomas Weddell

Primary PGCE Student

"I think the most useful facility is the online campus which means that you can just access the library, you can access lecture notes prior to any lectures happening so you can just have everything organised."

Paul Scott

ICT Secondary Teacher Training Student

"The libraries are brilliant. They have got every book you could possibly want."

Rahna Chopra

Early Years Student

"You just have to say this is the book I want and they will reserve it for you so that, again, I find quite useful."

Rachel Ashton

Acting Director of Resources

"We've consistently achieved the highest rate of student satisfaction from the National Student Survey."

Fiona Chéry

Maths Secondary Teacher Training Student

"You learn so much and it just increases your employability after the course, so it's excellent."

Chris Philpott

Dean of the School of Education

"The main aim of the School of Education at the University of Greenwich is to empower our students from diverse backgrounds to make a real difference to learning and education in their communities."

Voice-over

For a career in education there's no better place to learn.

University of Greenwich: visit www.gre.ac.uk

