

Media

Transcript

Voice-over

Turn on and tune in to a career in media. From creative writing and presentation skills to broadcasting, it is all about communication. Explore the heady world of journalism in our purpose built newsroom or gain technical skills in media production for TV or radio. You will be taught by lecturers with industry experience who will encourage you to follow your interests.

Mairead McClean

Reader in Film and Video Arts

"What we really want to get from the students is creativity, imagination, coming up with good ideas and showing that they can bring a production from the very beginning, working with a team and coming up with an end product."

Steve Kennedy

Principal Lecturer in Media and Programme Leader

"The media area prepares students for specific careers."

Mairead McClean

Reader in Film and Video Arts

"The students get a feeling for what that might entail across a broad spectrum. They understand how the media works."

Kimberley Pratt

Film and Television Production Student

"There is always constant coursework; deadlines all the time so it is quite good practice to get into meeting deadlines."

Steve Kennedy

Principal Lecturer in Media and Programme Leader

"The subject area covers media culture and communication, media arts production, film studies and journalism."

Mairead McClean

Reader in Film and Video Arts

"The students can choose between producing a piece of photography work, film work or a magazine, so there are a number of practical end products that they can come out with."

Kimberley Pratt

Film and Television Production Student

"It is quite a broad degree so you have people wanting to do different things and you can specialise in your final year."

Mairead McClean

Reader in Film and Video Arts

"Greenwich itself is used an awful lot as a set."

Nick Williamson

Film Student

"They just had Pirates of the Caribbean shot here and Sherlock Holmes 2."

Urszula Niedzwiedz

Media and Communications Student

"The King's Speech, The Golden Compass."

Kimberley Pratt

Film and Television Production Student

"I got the chance to be on the set of Pirates of the Caribbean 4 as a runner through the university."

Steve Kennedy

Principal Lecturer in Media and Programme Leader

"We basically live on a film set and for media students that is absolutely priceless."

Nick Williamson

Film Student

"What I enjoyed most about the programme is the mix of the practical and the theoretical side of it."

Urszula Niedzwiedz

Media and Communications Student

"You have access to three TV studios."

Nick Williamson

Film Student

"Editing suites, you have all the cameras you can use and all the sound equipment."

Urszula Niedzwiedz

Media and Communications Student

"Computer labs that we can use anytime and a huge library."

Nick Williamson

Film Student

"Whatever you need really, to do anything like a short film to a documentary piece. You have everything at your finger tips."

Urszula Niedzwiedz

Media and Communications Student

"Lecturers and teachers around us are very helpful."

Steve Kennedy

Principal Lecturer in Media and Programme Leader

"A lot of the staff have either worked in media or maintained contacts with people who work in the media."

Media

Transcript

Mairead McClean

Reader in Film and Video Arts

“One of the other advantages is the connection with the British Film Institute. It is fantastic to be able to have that opportunity to showcase your work and also to get feedback from incredibly important film makers.”

Urszula Niedzwiedz

Media and Communications Student

“I would like to work closely with TV or a radio station.”

Kimberley Pratt

Film and Television Production Student

“I will apply to documentary companies and see if I can get some work experience as a runner or researcher.”

Nick Williamson

Film Student

“I want to go into freelance documentary making or the journalistic side. You get a chance to do both of those here so a perfect mix.”

Voice-over

Will you get switched on to the exciting world of media?

University of Greenwich: visit www.gre.ac.uk

